

'Thanks Dr. Max, We Love You' Students, parents salute District 9 superintendent

By Jack G. Ventimiglia

GRANITE CITY — Under the banner, "Thanks Dr. Max, We Love You," more than 150 persons honored District 9 Superintendent Dr. Max Redmond during a tea at Township Hall, Thursday.

The superintendent greeted guests at the door, among them children he joked with and parents who voiced support for him in these troubled times for the district.

Those around Redmond noted the good-natured smile he's brought to Granite City. They had to smile, too. He has that effect.

But among the tables, mixed with the laughter and small talk, some conversations inevitably turned to the relationship between Redmond and the controversial School Board.

Board President Dewey Melton requested Redmond's resignation May 30.

Some board members, including Melton, have criticized Redmond. The superintendent does not recommend board choices for district jobs without first publicly recommending persons chosen by an evaluation committee.

Members of the public have shown support for Redmond's position on the issue, but mostly they seem to support his personal dedication to improving education for this district's students.

"It's obvious to everybody that he has the welfare of the students at heart," said local businessman Avery Schermer. "That's refreshing."

The board seems to think its position is correct, Schermer said, but the positive influence Redmond has on the community has earned public support. Redmond should be allowed to do his job, Schermer said.

"Teachers should teach, administrators should administer, and the board should make policy."

Redmond addresses crowd

That's when you've got a winning combination," said Schermer, a former trustee for Belleville Area College.

Senior citizen Gertrude Barkley sat among friends who were present to show appreciation for the superintendent.

"I'm proud of a man that stands up for his rights," she said. "The kids at school love him, don't they? I believe they do."

Three district employees had positive comments for Redmond, but they followed the tradition of keeping quiet — a sad commentary about how some employees, whether justified or not, feel speaking out can jeopardize their jobs.

Introducing Redmond to the crowd was Keith Parker, former football and track coach at Coolidge Junior High School.

"I think this evening is a very fitting way to say, thank you, Dr. Redmond," Parker said.

The vigorous standing ovation was quieted by Redmond.

"How many of you out there have ever picked cotton?" Redmond asked. Three or four hands among the puzzled crowd slowly lifted. "The point I want to make is, it's (board-superintendent relations) not as bad as it appears. I don't want to go back to picking cotton, and I'm going to stay around."

The announcement was met with applause.

"I have never minded disagreements with people," Redmond said, "but I don't want to disagree constantly. It would be like having two marriages, and I don't think anybody would want two marriages."

The important point for District 9, Redmond said, is that it continues to improve.

"Support education and the people who provide it and you will always have something to be proud of in Granite City," he said.

Following another standing ovation, members of the Coolidge Junior High School Student Council, which sponsored the tea, presented Redmond with a plaque in appreciation for his work in the district.

No one was sure that the continued support for Redmond will help him when the board decides what the future relationship with the superintendent will be, but some expressed hope.

"I think at this point they'll keep him," said Mack Johnson.

"From the tenor of the people here, you can tell they're (the public) very much for him," Parker said.

Depot in the running for training center

By Bill Bagby

GRANITE CITY — An Army Reserve readiness training center could be located here.

The U.S. Army's St. Louis Area Support Center (former Granite City Army Depot) is among three sites being reviewed for the location of the center, said Mike Mansfield, administrative assistant to U.S. Rep. Mel Price, D-Belleville.

But chances are slim it will be located here due to cost factors, said Bob Samples, a spokesman for Price.

"THE LIKELIHOOD of that is not great," Samples said.

Besides the Depot, the Army is reviewing two other plans for the site of the training center, Mansfield said.

One would have the training center remain at its present location in Port McCoy, Wis. Another would be to relocate the training center at an abandoned junior college in Michigan, which would cost about $2 million to renovate.

THE ARMY has estimated it would cost $22 million to move the training center to Granite City, Mansfield said.

Though the cost would be higher, Mansfield said the Army would benefit from moving the training center to the Depot because of easy accessibility and the advantage of having several existing military installations in the area.

He said that, at the other locations, accessibility would become a problem in the winter due to heavy snows.

"We're in a great location," he said.

SAMPLES SAID the Army has not ruled out the Depot for the training center, although the initial response was not favorable.

"That doesn't mean something won't change," Samples said. "If we can swing it, it would be a big lift to the area," said 6th Ward Alderman Woody Moad.

Chairman of the city's industrial search committee, Moad said his committee will be discussing what it can do to get the center located at the Depot.

"It would be a big asset," he said. "We'll do anything to get it in Granite City."

"I'm glad we're still in the running," said Mel Von Deo Cruse. "We're keeping in close contact with Congressman Price."

About 350 permanent jobs will be created in the training center located here, Cruse said.

"It would be a tremendous boost to Granite City," he said.

Man not charged in fondling incident

PONTOON BEACH — A Granite City man who allegedly fondled a 5-year-old girl in March has not been charged, though local authorities believe they have enough evidence against him.

The man was held in the Madison County jail in Edwardsville last weekend, and authorities believed a warrant would be issued for his arrest on Monday, June 16.

However, Madison County

Assistant State's Attorney Randy Massey rejected seeking an immediate warrant, saying further investigation is needed in the case.

THE POLICE (in Pontoon Beach) have been asked to provide some more information," Massey said Friday.

The man allegedly sexually abused the girl March 7 at her Pontoon Beach home.

The girl's mother said the man had been a close friend of the Fun project turns into successful 'shoe box flight'

GRANITE CITY — Two field mice in a shoe box, floating through the air with the help of 30 balloons, is not a typical science project.

But it was a successful one for four Granite City High School students.

Their independent science project dealt with the various aspects of helium balloon travel, primary lift and wind currents. It was a learning experience, but primarily by a fun activity.

THE EXPERIMENT took place at 8 a.m. Saturday, May 31, near the high school soccer field.

A large shoebox, covered with duct tape and equipped with two parachutes, was attached by fishing wire to 30 helium-filled balloons. The box contained two field mice, food, water and a postcard.

The balloons were released and the craft was on its way.

Destination unknown.

WHEN THE POSTCARD was returned, it was learned the craft landed in a tree on a farm in Fairfield, Ill., about 100 miles east of here.

The craft was intact and its passengers alive.

Ed Lampitt, David Maxwell, Mike Ramey and Charles Mateosian, who all have just completed their junior year, started their project about three months ago following the spring break.

The four were all students in the Rev. Williams resigns post

By Valerie Evenden

"It is time for me to move on to other things," the Rev. John Henry Williams said Wednesday, explaining why he is resigning from the Venice Board of Park Commissioners.

"I don't see any reason for me to stay on the board now, as I have completed the goals I set for myself."

"EVERYTHING I started while on the board I've seen through to the finish, including the water slide," the former park board president said.

Action on Rev. Williams' letter of resignation will be taken at the board's next regular meeting July 10, unless a special meeting is necessary prior to that time, Anna Claggett, board president, said this week.

"One of my greatest dreams has been fulfilled and that is the completion of the water slide. I made a promise three years ago that upon completion of the water slide I would resign.

"THE HOUR and time has arrived. On Sunday, June 22, one day after the opening of the water slide, I am resigning as a commissioner," the minister said.

Noting that he served as president for three terms, Rev. Williams said, "While I have been on the board we have added new playground equipment for the kids, bought a new tractor for maintenance of the park and we now have park police officers."

"We've also seen our children get the chance to get into the summer food program," he said.

YOUNGSTERS enrolled in the park district's summer recreation program are eligible to participate in a mid-day meal program, financed through a special grant from the Illinois State Board of Education.

During summer months, the food is cooked and served five days a week at the Venice School District's cafeteria.

"I am still willing to volunteer my time to help the park district in any way that I can," Rev. Williams said. "They can call on me anytime."

AN ELECTED MEMBER of the park board since 1981, Rev. Williams was named president for the third time in April 1985.

Aldermen vote to accept bid

GRANITE CITY — A recommendation from the Granite City engineering department on bids for provision of the city's fuel for fiscal 1987 was accepted Tuesday night.

The City Council voted 12-1 to concur with the recommendation to accept a bid from Ronald E. Branding of Mobil Oil for regular and unleaded gasoline, and to accept a bid from Ramney Rich of Rich Oil for diesel fuel and heating oil.

THE MOBIL OIL BID was $5.15 cents a gallon for regular gasoline, 54.15 cents a gallon for unleaded, 51.8 cents a gallon for diesel fuel and 60.1 cents a gallon for heating oil.

The Rich Oil bid was 59.1 cents a gallon for regular gasoline and 60.1 cents a gallon for heating oil.

It specified 49.5 cents a gallon for diesel fuel and 49.35 cents a gallon for heating oil.

"I FEEL it should go to the low bidder," said 7th Ward Alderman Mike Modrusic, street and alley committee chairman.

The only council member voting against the motion was 4th Ward Alderman Sharon Perjak. Absent was 5th Ward Alderman Lloyd Bailey.

The aldermen approved the bids after deferring action at their last meeting on a motion by 6th Ward Alderman Judy Whitaker to accept the bid for all the fuels from Rich Oil, even though it would be the higher bid.

WHITAKER said she felt the aldermen should accept the Rich Oil bid because his business was located in the city. Branding's fuel storage facility is in Edwardsville but his business, Rebecam Auto Parts, is located in Granite City.

Both Branding and Rich have supplied the city with fuel in the past.

Though 'It has always been done this way,' it doesn't make it right

Some political figures have defended patronage activities on the basis of tradition. Though something was done once before, or on a regular basis for the past 10, 20 or an infinite number of years, that doesn't make it right.

Because of political affiliations, a good person may lose a job. Maybe a better person will be substituted and maybe not. That is the way of political jobs. Those who win are in and those who lose are out, taking their friends with them.

There is little to be gained by attacking all such hirings. The enormity of the task would take a lifetime struggle to overcome.

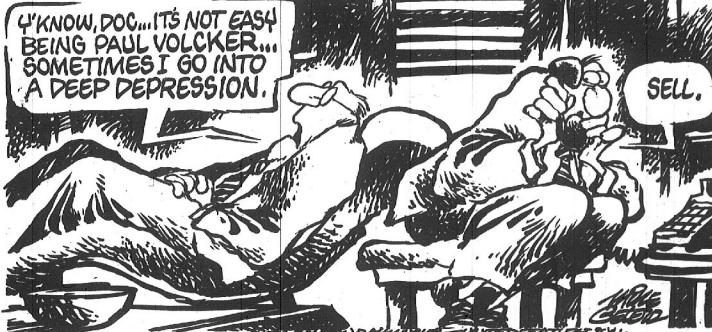

But one day it would be pleasant to find all levels of government giving examinations to prospective employees. Only test scores, perhaps, and past job performance would be evaluated in such cases. This could be followed by a 30-day trial period, or something, in which work and personality were reviewed. It would reduce the politics involved in hirings at all levels of government.

Wishful thinking.

Politics played with hirings is probably going to be with us for a long time to come. It results in inefficiency and reduced service to the public to have constant turnover as a result of elections, but that must be acceptable to the public because they allow it to occur, day after day, election after election.

It would take a lifetime struggle to overcome.

Military flying can mean dying

Military flying is dangerous.

Our nation's first-ever military plane crashed before it was paid for.

On the operational test flight of the original Wright Military Flyer, Orville Wright was at the controls, teaching Lt. Tom Selfridge how to fly it — when the plane crashed at Fort Myer, Va., and Selfridge was killed.

That was 1908.

Military flying is dangerous.

For obvious reasons, military planes are high-performance machines, less forgiving.

And each generation of aircraft is technologically advanced.

As tried out first by the military.

Yet, despite these factors, the safety record of our Air Force is phenomenal — steadily, dramatically improving until last year was the safest year ever.

An accident rate of 1.6 is the best in the 64 years we've kept records.

In 1922 our Army Air Service flew only 65,000 hours and yet had 10 major accidents.

That is 506 accidents per 100,000 hours.

Today 1.6 accidents per 100,000 hours.

So we have been flying higher, faster, farther, safer than ever before. Until now. Now along comes a dread word — danger to military pilots called GLOC.

Accidents the Air Force calls GLOC-related are parts or engine failures. These problems can fix.

Then there are operations-related accidents. Some of these have been traced to fatigue,

Paul Harvey News

By Paul Harvey

distraction, task saturation or mission stress or GLOC.

Our technology has outdistanced our ability to adapt.

The G-forces — gravity forces — in a high-speed maneuver may cause the pilot to grayout or blackout.

Our Air Force has sought to counteract G-forces with special G-suits which retard the displacement of the pilot's blood from his head to his feet. Pilots have learned to "grunt" — to push against the G-suit — to remain conscious.

But with the F-15 and F-16 jets, the G-forces are more than the pilot can stand. In any screaming turn he may lose consciousness. This may explain nine recent crashes.

Since the first Wright brothers' flight, the pilot was able to withstand more G-forces than his plane could. The plane would break apart. Now the planes are tougher than the man who fly them. The danger is too hot to manhandle, may be the end of the line.

With air war thus further "depersonalized," guided missiles become increasingly significant.

And interceptor missiles.

And that, in essence, is what the President's proposed "star shield" is all about.

Reading, parents make difference in kids

Summer is here, and the children are at home most of the day. They counted the hours until school would be out; and now the long, leisurely days have arrived. Life is peaceful and relaxed, and parents have a golden opportunity to help the children have a summer to remember.

Parents are the most important factor in their children's lives. Their influence sets the stage for success or failure, not only in school but in adulthood as well, authorities say.

They can help their children make a little progress during the summer, and have a good time doing it. They can help children maintain their reading skills during the summer, simply by providing the opportunities to have reading experiences. They can show their children that reading is important by sharing some of those experiences.

Research shows that the best way for parents to help their children become better readers is to read aloud to them. This should start at an early age, and it teaches children that their parents view reading as an important part of their lives.

It has other functions as well. Reading develops a child's ability to develop their knowledge of meanings of words and of stories. It brings pleasure to both parents and children and it instills a love of reading that leads to attitudes about reading that help in making school experiences happy and successful.

One of the problems parents encounter in reading aloud to their children is that of availability of reading material. In Granite City, the public library can help solve that problem.

There is even a special children's section, with easy-reading books for children who want to do their own reading. The library also has several summer programs that encourage children to read in the summer. To find out about types of activities available and the times they are offered, parents may call Jeanette Bohen at 452-6238.

Children are often encouraged to read in the summer by having reading partners.

Two children may find that reading aloud to each other, or reading separately and discussing what they have read, is a fun activity for summertime.

Parents can encourage this by providing a cool, quiet place where the children may read undisturbed, and by seeing that there are books available that the children can read.

Another activity which encourages children to read is "Front Porch Read Out." It consists of an adult or older child sitting outside on the front porch and reading aloud to neighborhood children.

This program was initiated by Jim Heaton, a Granite City resident who gained international fame by lowering books over the river locks to bargemen who were passing through. To find out more about "Front Porch Read Out," parents may call Mr. Heaton at home (876-7119) or at work (452-4332).

Reading is a skill, and the more one practices, the better one gets. If parents start treating reading the way they do baseball or swimming, children will begin to realize how important it is. When a child comes in from practicing baseball, his parents nearly always ask how he did, how successful his team was, what he needs to practice on, etc.

Nearly always, the parents will be sure that a practice time is set up, and often will help the child by pitching to him or doing whatever he needs. Think how good children will feel when parents treat reading the same way — ask what he read, how did he like the story, and did he have any trouble reading or understanding it. Then perhaps a joint session in reading could be arranged, just the same as in baseball.

Set the child will realize that reading is considered important by Mom and Dad. In the long run, it may be much more important for a child to be a good reader than a good batter.

There are many ways to encourage children to read without actually using books. Here are some other activities parents may want to share with their children:

- Cut out coupons and arrange them into categories.

- Go grocery shopping together and, if the child is old enough, ask him to find certain items on the shelves.

- Take pictures of summer "happenings" and write an account of what happened. These may be shown and read to friends and relatives.

- Select television shows from the TV guide.

- Cut out interesting newspaper articles and make collections or scrapbooks about special topics of interest.

- Pick clothes or toys from mail order catalogs and tell what features listed make them good buys.

- Read the "funny papers" together.

- While on vacations, collect brochures and histories about places visited.

- A few reminders that help keep summer happy deal with parent-child relationships. It helps to use praise and rewards for jobs well done, even if they are small ones. It sets a good example when the parent reads, too.

- Better understanding between parents and children will develop if they talk to each other often. Finding ways to have fun together will give both parents and children happy memories for years to come.

- Finally, never underestimate the power of the parents! They hold their children's lives in their hands, and they can make the difference between a summer to remember and a summer lost.

Super breakfast bowl — how sweet it is!

Grocery shoppers nowadays wonder if they're still in a grocery store when they walk into the cereal aisle.

Between the "real" cereals — Wheaties, Corn Flakes, Raisins and Grape Nuts are the new generation of cereals that could be mistaken for either a video arcade, toy store or television commercial. Pac-Man,

Monkey Kong, Ghostbusters, Strawberry Shortcake, Count

Dowla and G.I. Joe — these are some of the cereals America's children are eating for breakfast these days.

Most are nothing more than sugar-coated cereals, many with fun shapes and colors of marshmallows, which are really just sugar in disguise.

Being a cereal lover myself and loving two boys who also eat more than their share of cereal, going down the cereal aisle sometimes can be an exercise of skill and logic thinking to love them away from the brightly-colored boxes with the all-too-familiar logos of video games, toys and television programs.

Fortunately, my two boys are accustomed to eating cereals like Rice, Corn and Wheat Chex, Kix, Cheerios, Wheaties, Corn Flakes and Rice Krispies.

Occasionally, they do get a box of Alpha-Bits, but at least they can learn the alphabet while they eat them.

Of course, my generation had our sugar-coated cereals when we were growing up. Tony the Tiger and his Friends Flakes, Sugar Crisp, Sugar Smacks, Sugar Pops and even Alpha-Bits, when it was first introduced.

You might not recognize some of these cereals anymore because the word "sugar" is obviously taboo. Sugar Crisp, with its Sugar Bear mascot, is now Super Golden Crisp and comes in a metallic gold box. Sugar Smacks, formerly with a frog for a spokesman, is now Honey Smacks with a bear mascot.

And Sugar Pops, a sponsor of the Wild Bill Hickok television show in the late 1950s, is now Corn Pops. It is still sweetened cereals, but the sugar isn't being pushed so hard.

Even though sugar isn't a key word in the cereal aisle anymore, it definitely is a key ingredient. Practically all cereals aimed at the children's market are sugar-laden corn, oat or corn-oat mixtures, many with marshmallows.

In addition to these already mentioned, there are Cocoa Pebbles and Fruity Pebbles of Flintstones fame, Franken Berry, a Frankenstein spoof, Lucky Charms and the new Swirled-Up Edition, Froot Loops, Apple Jacks, Honeycomb, Kaboom and Cap'n Crunch.

There are also some adulterated "old-time" cereals like Cocoa Krispies and Frosted Krispies of Rice Krispies ancestry, Honey Nut Cheerios, a sweetened variety of Cheerios, and Frosted Mini-Wheats which are little shredded wheats with a sugar coating.

Another variety of cereals are those that imitate other types of foods such as Cocoa Crisp, a chocolate chip cookie-like cereal, Cinnamon Toast Crunch, which has no further explanation, S'Mores, a chocolate-flavored cereal with little shredded marshmallows like the Girl Scouts, and Golden Grahams, a graham cracker-like cereal.

And don't forget Rocky Road. Its box states it's a "sweetened

To the editor:

I write this in response to a writer's outlandish blast toward our city services in the June 12 issue of the Press-Record.

To her, I say it is very apparent that you think you are the only one things like that happen to.

But if you would stop and think about what kind of point you are trying to make, you would realize how truly absurd it sounds.

Do you for a minute think that the lower city is any less polluted than the hydrant near the front of your home just to cause you hardship? I also would think the same would apply to our fire department, city fathers and the excavating contractor.

I, for one, am very happy with the way our city is run, and I am pleased to see our taxes — yours and mine — spent in such ways about which you complain.

These methods make our city safe for all, and if you feel that prevention and safety are an inconvenience to you and your loved ones, then I believe your ideals are in the wrong direction.

To the letter writer, I say maybe you should spend your spare time volunteering for a worthwhile cause, and away from the television, or better yet move to Montana where the only complaining you can do will be to the animals.

Officials caught in sex scam; aliens involved

The headline makes a point, though it has absolutely no basis in fact — that I know. It was accused the other day of writing "sensational" headlines; in insult.

I had a peer at an area daily newspaper look over the headlines and what I thought would be the most controversial stories we've printed. If I was overblowing the headlines as charged, I wanted to know it.

I was crestfallen to find he thought my headlines were a little boring, but vindicated when he laughed about the idea of the headlines being sensational.

How sensational a headline is judged, it seems, is directly related to the amount of involvement a person has in the story. A person named in the story, especially a story on controversy, is going to be looking for problems. The above headline is very much sensational; perhaps the only truly sensational headline I've ever written. The headline has little to do with this story and it was designed to get attention at any cost. That's something we don't do with our headlines.

But other newspapers do, as you have seen while in the grocery stores.

For those of you who might yet be unconvinced about how calm our headlines are, the following sensational headlines were taken from various newspapers dating from the 1930s:

These from Joseph Pulitzer's defunct New York World: "Love Nest Murder," "Victims Of His Passion," and "A Bride But Not A Wife."

This from William Randolph Hearst's defunct New York Journal: "Strange Things Women Do For Love."

Here are some personal favorites from Bernard McFadden's defunct New York Daily Graphic, also known as the "pornographic" for good reason: "Stick To Women, They're Safer Than Horses," "I Married Kid McCoy Three Times Because He Was Gentle And Kind," "My Life As Marta Fara, Strong Woman, Was A Fake," "He Beat Me - I Love Him," "Woof, Woof, I'm A Goat" (about an old rich man playing "doggy" in bed with a very young girl).

Notice how all of the above newspapers are "defunct." Like to think that's because the public will be amused by sensationalism, but will tire of it. The New York Daily News also put out some startling headlines in its early days. Today, though toned down, its attention-grabbing headlines are much better.

In the early days of that newspaper, the public would find such beauties as these: "Monkey Glads Give Man Of 72 Youth's Health," "Quadrangle Of Love Shrinks To Triangle" and "Ruined Woman Is Heritage Of Dark Ages."

Sensational headlines in the Press-Record/Journal? I don't think so.

Quality of air still a problem

Air quality during 1985 continued to improve in nearly all parts of Illinois, according to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency's annual air quality report.

Readings from almost 300 air monitoring instruments located statewide showed lower average and peak air pollution levels in 1985 than previous years.

"We expect Illinois' air quality will continue to improve," Mike Hayes, manager of the IEPA's Air Pollution Control Division, said Wednesday.

"Improving pollution controls on industry and implementing new programs, such as vehicle emission testing (the Air Team) will do much to improve our air."

Of the six criteria pollutants, ozone, carbon monoxide and total suspended particulates (airborne dust) showed the most improvement in 1985.

Sulfur dioxide, lead and nitrogen dioxide concentrations remained at levels better (lower) than the standards for those pollutants.

The 1985 data clearly shows that air pollution levels are on a downward trend," said IEPA Director Richard J. Carlson.

"However, unhealthy air quality was still measured in several cities and industrialized areas."

The areas which exceeded the air quality standards in 1985 were generally located in the Chicago and St. Louis metropolitan areas, with suspended particulates and ozone being the problem pollutants.

"The trends are still encouraging," Hayes said. "Both the frequency of occurrence and the geographic area covered by the unhealthy conditions are decreasing and we expect these conditions to diminish."

PARTICULATES: Of the 104 sites testing for suspended particulates, only four exceeded the 75 micrograms per cubic meter annual average health standard in 1985. This is down from six sites above the standard in 1984 and ten sites in 1983.

Statewide, particulate levels averaged only 50 in 1985, compared to a 52 average in 1984 and 57 in 1983. Since 1970, particulate levels have decreased continually.

For the 14th year in a row, the monitor measuring suspended particulates at 2001 E. 20th St. in Chicago recorded the highest annual average in the state.

The average concentration at the local site was 120 compared to the 119 measured in 1984.

The other sites measuring values above the standard were Granite City's 15th Street and Madison Avenue, 85; Chicago's Washington School, 85; and McCook, 83.

OZONE: Ozone concentrations in 1985 were dramatically improved over those measured in previous years, especially in the Chicago and East St. Louis areas.

The highest one-hour concentration recorded in 1985 was 0.152 parts per million (ppm) measured at the Alton monitoring station. This was well below the 0.172 ppm measured in 1984 and the 0.213 measured in 1983.

The number of days above the one-hour health standard of 0.12 ppm was also reduced, with 12 days in 1985 compared to 16 days in 1984 and 31 days in 1983.

Only sites in Cook, Lake and Madison counties recorded more than one day above the health standard.

Fewer ozone advisories were issued in 1985 than in 1984 or 1983. An ozone advisory (Stage I of the episode alert system) is issued when levels reach 0.12 ppm and are expected to reoccur the next day.

Only five advisories were issued in 1985 compared to six in 1984 and 20 in 1983. There were no Stage 2 Yellow Alerts issued in 1985, as ozone concentrations remained well below the Yellow Alert level of 0.20 ppm. The last Ozone Yellow Alert was issued in 1981.

CARBON MONOXIDE: For the first time since ambient monitoring began in the 1960s, there were no values measured above the 9 ppm eight-hour health standard anywhere in Illinois.

The monitoring station at 160 N. LaSalle in Chicago has historically measured the highest carbon monoxide concentrations of any station in Illinois.

In 1984, 13 occurrences were measured above the health standard at 160 N. LaSalle and there were 29 occurrences measured in 1983.

In 1985, the highest eight-hour average measured at 160 N. LaSalle was 8.3 ppm. As in previous years, no values were measured in excess of the one-hour health standard of 35 ppm.

The highest one-hour concentration measured in 1985 was 16.8 ppm compared to 19.7 ppm in 1984 and 31.0 ppm in 1983.

LEAD, SULFUR DIOXIDE, NITROGEN DIOXIDE:

The highest quarterly average lead value measured was 1.05 micrograms at Washington School in Chicago and was well below the 1.5 health standard.

The East St. Louis monitoring station measured the highest annual average sulfur dioxide concentration with 0.018 ppm average, well below the 0.030 ppm health standard.

Nitrogen dioxide concentrations remained below the 0.05 ppm annual average health standard statewide with the highest annual average of 0.042 ppm being recorded at several sites in Chicago.

Bids to be taken for trash contract

GRANITE CITY — Bids will be sought for trash removal service at The Anchorage and Kirkpatrick Homes.

The City Council voted unanimously Tuesday night to seek bids, after defeating a motion to renew a contract with Big G Disposal and Container Service of Granite City.

Fifth Ward Alderman Jake

Varadian, sanitation and inspection committee chairman, told the aldermen the current contract with Big G for trash removal at the two housing projects will expire June 30.

Varadian also said Big G would renew the contract with the city for one year at the same price of $1,058 per month for the trash removal.

Though the council vote was 8-5 to renew the contract, the motion was defeated. A three-fourths vote is needed for accepting a contract without first seeking bids, it was noted.

The eight were Fisk, Modrusic, Skubish, Varadian, Hanke, Whitaker, Worthen and Hewlett.

The five were Whitmer, Morlen, Schuman, Perjak and Moad. Bailey was absent.

WALK-ON meeting discusses problems after death of spouse

GRANITE CITY — The first meeting of WALK-ON (Women Are Learning Knowledge of Necessities) was held June 3 at the Harold Brown Recreation Center. Bookkeeper Debbie Harvey spoke about financial planning while others shared concerns about such things as health insurance, social loneliness, the grieving process and many other subjects.

Common experiences were shared by women who are in transition from marriage to widowhood and said they "need support and help from someone who cares and understands."

There are over 10 million widows in the U.S. today. Seventy-five percent of all married women will experience widowhood in their lifetime and the majority will not remarry, statistics show.

Many are women who have never worked outside the home and some have not had to make everyday decisions about life necessities. They find themselves thrown into the unfamiliar environment of taxes, bank accounts, investments and other financial matters, it was noted.

Additionally, they are dealing with the grief of having lost a loved one and are feeling socially ostracized because of no longer being part of a couple, but now a single woman.

For these reasons, WALK-ON was formed to help people deal with emotional and financial needs brought on by the death of a loved one.

"I realize the problems of losing a loved one do not end after the burial ceremony, but have just begun," said Robert Thomas, president of Thomas Mortuaries and founder of WALK-ON.

"Women who lose a husband often face two basic problems in adjusting to their new life: the first is the grief and the second is learning to handle the everyday necessities of life," Thomas said. "We are here to help them with these problems and any other that might arise."

WALK-ON plans to meet the first Monday and the third Tuesday of each month starting in July. The first meeting will consist of a lecture on a subject relating to the needs of widows in Granite City. The second will be a bereavement counseling session supervised by a professional psychologist.

The meetings aren't only for women.

"Widowers are also encouraged to attend to share their needs and experiences and possibly to form an organization of their own," Thomas said.

"WALK-ON is focusing on the needs of widows because women have special needs in today's society," he said. "They often outlive their husbands and are not prepared financially or psychologically to take care of themselves." More information on the meetings can be obtained by calling Liz Neeley at 876-4321.

Q. Are certificates of deposit good investments now that interest and investment rates seem to be falling back?

A: Traditionally, certificates of deposit have had two real and solid benefits for the investor which other investment sources have not been able to offer. First, of course, is the fact that certificates of deposit are federally insured up to $100,000. As we've said many times, this point alone should make certificates of deposit very worthwhile.

But, as you mentioned, rates are falling. This, of course, will also affect such investments as money market funds. Certificates of deposit, on the other hand, offer an edge when interest rates fall: C.D.s allow you to lock into the current rates for the next few months or years for whatever the term of the certificate. These two points: Federally insured funds and constant, locked-in interest rates, make C.D.s an on-going good investment.

Solicitation of arson alleged Ronald Martin, 32, of 25 Victoria Drive was charged June 13 by Pontoon Beach authorities with solicitation of arson, insurance fraud and making a false police report.

The first charge stemmed from an investigation of an incident on April 24 at the Huck's Convenience Store, 4086 Pontoon Road, Pontoon Beach.

The other charges resulted from a residential theft report made by Martin on March 26.

Martin was taken to the Madison County jail in Edwardsville and later was released on bond.

Vacation tips

GRANITE CITY — This weekend officially marks the beginning of summer, which means the vacation season is now in full swing.

But warm weather and travel mean a higher crime rate.

Nearly all types of personal and household crime are highest in the summer when people are away from home on vacations or are involved in outdoor activities.

To help Illinoisans learn to protect themselves and their property while traveling this summer, the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority is offering a free brochure called "Going Away? Get a Minute to Talk about Protecting your Home, and Safety while Traveling?" It contains dozens of safety tips from McGruff, the "spokesdog" of the National Crime Prevention Council.

A key fact the brochure mentions is that the police department should be contacted before the vacation to arrange for home security.

It also provides a space to list important information such as vehicle identification data, drivers license numbers, and credit card and traveler's check numbers. The list is meant to be taken on the trip to provide necessary information in case of an emergency.

The brochure is available, free of charge, at the Granite City Police Station, 2330 Madison Ave.

Drunk trucker sentenced to prison for crash here

A truck driver convicted of reckless homicide in connection with an accident that killed three persons on Interstate 270 was sentenced Friday to three years in prison.

LeAnne Crowley Jones, 34, of Kansas City, Mo., was sentenced by Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill in Madison County Circuit Court in Edwardsville. She was found guilty by O'Neill of three counts of reckless homicide after a bench trial in April.

Her attorney argued for a probation sentence that would include treatment for alcoholism.

The accident occurred Aug. 2, 1985, at about 6 p.m. Jones was driving a tractor trailer west on I-270 when it slammed into a line of traffic slowed for construction about a fourth of a mile west of Illinois 203.

Killed were Stephen P. Bender, 17, and Robin R. Johnson, 16, both of Edwardsville, and Richard J. Burnell, 60, of Florissant.

Five persons were injured, including Jones and her husband, Theodore Jones, who was in the truck's sleeper. Ross Connor of Worden; Gerald Wills of Edwardsville; and Robin Johnson's mother, Ruth A. Rutherford of Edwardsville.

Jones' blood alcohol content after the accident was .209 percent, authorities said. Legal proof of intoxication in Illinois is .10 percent.

Jones took the stand before sentencing and testified at length about her alcoholism. She said she started drinking heavily with her second husband about 15 years ago.

Theodore Jones, her third husband, is an alcoholic, she said. She described him as a jealous, abusive spouse who tried to keep her from attending Alcoholics Anonymous meetings because other men would be there.

"It seems that either I would drink with him or he'd get real drunk and beat me up," she said. She said she has been sober for the past two weeks — since breaking up with her husband — and is receiving counseling for alcoholism.

Jones said she had six mixed drinks the afternoon of the accident at a truck stop near Troy when another truck driver. She had planned to drive to Kansas City, she said.

She and her husband were both employed as drivers by Kroblin Refrigerated X-Press of Tulsa, Okla. The couple often stopped for drinks on the road, she said.

Her attorney, Paul Storment, argued that she suffered from a disease — alcoholism — and consequent lack of judgment. He said rehabilitation would not be possible in prison and recommended a "shock probation" program that would include alcoholism treatment.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Rybak said Jones was reckless because she failed to heed construction warning signs and was traveling at speeds witnesses estimated at 65 to 70 mph.

He said no skid marks were found and witnesses did not see the truck's brake lights go on.

Jones' children would not be seriously affected by her prison term because she does not have custody of them, Rybak added.

Jones said her brakes failed. She could not explain why witnesses did not see brake lights.

O'Neill said he regrets Illinois has no prison facility with treatment services for convicts with drug and alcohol problems. The state "seriously needs such a facility," he said.

He said probation would "deprecate the seriousness" of Jones' conduct and might not protect society from her. The three-year prison term is the maximum allowed under law for the crimes.

An officer at the rear of the shopping center reported hearing the mother screaming and seeing two cars leaving the vicinity.

One vehicle was stopped at Carlson and Jill avenues and the driver was questioned. The assailant apparently was driving the second auto, a white over light blue Monte Carlo, which went south on Aubrey Avenue.

Teachers, Middle School principal are to be hired

By DONNA Kimbro Staff writer

MADISON — The prospect of hiring an English teacher and a business education teacher at Madison High School prompted President Billie Bosworth and other board members Thursday night to set guidelines to inform the teacher union of the staff openings.

Bosworth instructed Superintendent of Schools John Palchick to confer with the officers of the Madison Federation of Teachers and inform them of the district's need to hire two teachers.

"You cannot just post the notice in a building that is not open. We went through this process with the union before and this was one of their complaints...that they did not know of an opening prior to the board hiring someone, preferably within the district. We are not going to let this happen again," the president said.

"After the union officers are notified, and if there is no one within the district qualified for these positions, then you can go outside the area to interview new teachers," Bosworth said.

Agreeing were the other board members present, Ed Dohnal, James Newsome, Edmund Warhol and Frank Eaves. John Hamm and Don Garrett were not present.

A letter of resignation from Earl

Acid rain bill called damaging

Gov. James R. Thompson met with the Illinois Congressional delegation June 17 to urge members to fight an acid rain bill that he said would hurt Illinois, and also to support a uniform product liability proposal.

"House bill 4657 would have the effect of gutting the Illinois coal mining industry and would throw more miners out of work," Thompson said in Washington.

"We think we can get at the same objective, cleaning up the air, by less costly means that won't encourage switching from Illinois fuel."

"It is our responsibility to use our resources to clean up Illinois coal and we do that more than any state in the nation," he said.

He urged defeat of the Waxman proposal, saying it could cause a loss of 3,000 to 4,000 mining jobs in Illinois because it would encourage a switch from the use of Illinois coal to other fuels through subsidies.

Thompson said the bill also could raise utility rates for consumers.

Thompson and the delegation agreed that a working group comprising representatives of the governor's office, coal industry, miners and utilities will be formed to develop alternatives to the proposal.

Earlier in the day, Thompson met with White House officials to select a working group to oppose the Waxman proposal and to support a federal uniform product liability law. He also sent a letter to the other 49 governors, urging them to support the product liability change.

taxpayers approved a $200,000 water recreation area proposal in April 1983 by a margin of 605 yes to 336 no votes.

The bond issue also is financing improvements to the Lee Park tennis courts, the playground area and baseball diamonds.

INITIAL BIDS to construct the water slide were rejected as too costly and some aspects of the original proposal were eliminated, such as a bathhouse.

Successful negotiations to keep costs within prescribed limits were conducted by Henry Gabriel, architect, between the general contractor and the manufacturer of the slide.

Excavation work got underway in 1983 in the late summer months, but fiberglassing the slide and other necessary work could not be resumed this spring until temperatures reached a minimum of 60 degrees.

MORE PROBLEMS surfaced when the Venice Park District, along with many other districts in Illinois, became a victim of skyrocketing costs for insurance.

The Venice district had to bid $2,500 for insurance in 1985-86 but found the premium quoted in March was $25,000.

Liability insurance premiums covering the new water slide were quoted at an additional $25,000. THIS PROBLEM was resolved in late spring after the Suburban Risk Management Insurance pool along with 55 other Illinois park districts. This reduced the premiums to a more affordable level.

Although the road leading to the opening of the new water slide was not as smooth, Rev. Williams is delighted its existence now is an established fact.

He praised park board members and the Venice Citizens Utilities Board and also the cooperation in making the slide a reality.

PASTOR of New Salem Missionary Baptist Church in Venice, the minister is a member of the Venice Board of Fire and Police Commissioners.

Rev. Williams is a lifetime resident of Venice and a Madison High School graduate. He attended Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and St. Community College in East St. Louis.

He is on the board of the Madison County Urban League and the Venice Citizens Utilities Board and also a member of Royal Arch Masons, New Hope Masonic Lodge 22 of the Prince Hall Masons, AF&AM, and International Union of Operating Engineers Local 2.

same physics class when the idea was conceived.

"WE WANTED something original to do," Lampitt said.

The idea of using the mice came from Lampitt. He had bought a mouse and wanted to do something with the captured mice without killing them.

The four teenagers formed a company called Cosmo-Mouse '86 and raised funds for the project by selling stock in the company.

Blank stock certificates were purchased and shares were printed on a computer.

THEY WERE SOLD for 25 cents a share, though the paper they were printed on cost 20 cents. Fellow students, teachers, friends and relatives together bought over 200 shares of stock in the company.

"Though the four are students, their project wasn't school sponsored, Ramey said. But teachers were there anyway to give advice. After all their expenses, the four teens ended up in the red — by $1.

As in all great experiments, there were doubters of the project, Lampitt said.

"THEY WERE afraid the mice would die," he said.

However, about 25 people turned out for the launch of the balloons.

The four teenagers are calling the experiment a success, even though they expected a little more.

"I was happy," Lampitt said. "I thought it would go farther."

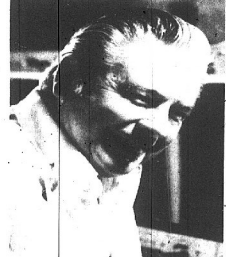

A FACTOR in the success, Ramey said, was group involvement.

"I think a certain amount of it was total input," he said. "We combined our ideas."

Another project is now in the works: a craft that will go farther and higher.

But, for now, they have achieved their first goal.

"We saw something we wanted to do and we did it," Lampitt said.

Buddy Moreno stars in Big Band series

By Valerie Evenden Staff writer

Bandleader Buddy Moreno will be guest artist for Wednesday night's "Big Band" concert in Wilson Park.

The two-hour free concert will be presented in the 27th Street and Delmar Avenue section of Wilson Park from 7:30 until 9:30. The performance will be moved inside the ice rink pavilion should rain occur.

BENCHES will be provided at the concert site, but patrons are being encouraged to bring their own lawn chairs for more comfortable seating.

Highlighting this summer's concert series is the Stan Forging Players for his shows, such as Chorus Line, Mame, Annie and Sound of Music.

Perri Moreno still sings with that organization.

THE MORENOs' daughter, Julie, is a singer and their son, Rick, a student at Southern Illinois University, is a drummer.

The family lives in Florissant and has many friends in the metropolitan area.

The 1986 Big Band series, sponsored by the Granite City Park District and Metro East, will feature 300 persons at each of two earlier performances, Fornaszewski said.

Moreno, a guitarist as well as a vocalist, started in the music world in 1929 when he worked for a night and then joined the Griff Williams Society Orchestra in the San Francisco area.

He organized a band in 1947, breaking in at the Casa Loma Ballroom in St. Louis before going corn cereal with marshmallows covered with a chocolate flavored coating and nuts. "Is this cereal or candy?"

Other, newer cereals include Granola, Fruit & Fibre, Almond Delight, a "wheat and rice cereal with raisins," Raisin Bran, Raisin Mix Cereal, Just Right, containing whole wheat, corn, rice and oats, and Raisin Squares, a mini shredded wheat cereal with raisins.

One of the most interesting is a little-known cereal called King Vitamin, described as a corn and oats multivitamin and iron supplement cereal. That sounds like it's too good for you to taste good; maybe Mikey will try it.

But never fear, the old standards are still on the shelves, hidden between all the sugar coating. Cereals like Puffed Rice and Puffed Wheat, Raisin Bran and a host of other bran cereals, Special K, Total and Team Flakes.

And, of course, the hot cereals such as oatmeal, cream of wheat, cream of rice, Malt-O-Meal and Raisin, a high fiber hot cereal.

Hopefully, today's shoppers, the "real" cereal eaters of yesterday, will be as diligent as I in not forgetting their "old-time" favorites and getting their children to at least try some of these "new" cereals.

The incident was reported to Pontoon Beach authorities March 10, said Police Chief Chet Ballew. Detective Merl Hayden was assigned to the investigation.

"WE BELIEVE it's (sufficient evidence there)," Ballew said. "But evidently he (Massey) doesn't, for some reason."

A "hold" was authorized on the man last weekend, he said, and officers thought the warrant would be issued.

"I don't know what else we can do with it," Ballew said.

God one day, the mother said, "and if Mr. Massey doesn't do anything, he might be responsible, too."

THE WOMAN said her daughter liked to go to church and was outgoing, inquisitive and "smarter than other kids."

Now, she said, the child is sometimes withdrawn and suffers from psychological problems.

Though she is still angry, she said she wants to see the man helped.

"I don't want to put him in a hard prison cell for 20 years," she said. "I want to see him helped to get this problem taken care of."

GC women win poetry awards

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Two Quad-City Area women have won national awards in recognition of their poetry.

Kimberly Horn of 3813 Lake Drive, Ponton Beach, won the Golden Poet Award of 1986 from World of Poetry, a poetry newsletter, for her poem "Collections."

"It deals with friendships and things of the world we take for granted," she said.

HER POEM, written in January, also won an "honorable mention" award from the publication earlier this year, she said.

Horn, 37, said she started writing poetry when she was in high school. She has since written about 50 poems which she has put into a book.

Many of her poems were written while she was traveling abroad with her former husband who was in the Army, she said.

HORN IS the second local woman to win the award. Laura Hill of Granite City also won the Golden Poet Award for her poem "Eternity."

Madison hopes to sell bridge, plans meeting

MADISON — Mayor John Bellcoff announced at a City Council meeting Tuesday night there is a possibility the city can sell the Chain of Rocks Bridge to interested parties.

Although Bellcoff said nothing is final at the present time, he named Alderman Don Garrett as chairman of a committee to prepare necessary information for a meeting on the possible sale.

The city bought the Mississippi River bridge in the 1930s and operated it for several decades as a busy toll bridge for autos and trucks.

The bridge's bond debt was retired, but it became impossible to operate it profitably due to the competition of the nearby Interstate 270 toll bridge, constructed by the federal government.

As a result, the city bridge has been closed in recent years.

The city received a check for $95 in court fines collected during May in St. Clair County and another check for $4,766 collected during the same period from Madison cases heard in Madison County. The city now extends into both counties due to its annexation of the Gateway Midstate Truck Stop area.

A monthly police report prepared by Charles Bridick, then assistant police chief, listed a total of 222 adult charges and 10 juvenile charges. Madison police arrested 56 males and 10 females in May. Bridick was promoted to police chief Tuesday night.

The council agreed to provide police officers to direct traffic for a parade planned June 3, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. by the Dunbar School Alumni Association.

An amendment to the bill list for May 21 through June 3, from $47,726 to a new total of $52,994, was approved by the aldermen, as were bills for June 4-17 in the amount of $88,271.

The council voted to buy an IBM computer at a cost of $5,425. It will be utilized for municipal business tasks by the city treasurer and city controller staffs.

Swimettes class to start at park

The Granite City Park District will offer eight weeks of swimettes beginning June 23. Swimettes is an aquatic conditioning class similar to an aerobic class.

Doing exercises in the water can have important advantages; water provides a weightless environment that can sharply reduce the possibility of common aerobic injuries. And for the healthy fitness enthusiast, water can add extra resistance to the workout, a park spokesman said.

The classes at the swimming pool will be offered Monday and Wednesday, 10:15 to 11 a.m., or Tuesday and Thursday, 8:15 to 9 p.m.

The group will be limited to the first 30 participants to sign up at the Wilson Park office at 877-3059. Mrs. Lee Suarez will be instructing.

Cost is $7.50 for park district residents and $17.50 for non-residents.

Collections

I have a collection of friends around me. Everyone different, pure equality. I need to take time to admire them all. As a rose that blooms once, then disappears with the fall. I need to love them and give back what I get. A friend is so precious, to explore and appreciate. All my collections won't be the same. From one I get truth; sometimes I get pain. The friends are all different, but I need to explain. I value each one, gifts I always attain.

Kimberly Horn

Manley Ave. won the Silver Poet Award of 1986 from the publication for her poem "Cancer."

The poem was written as an emotional outlet after a relative died of cancer, she said.

Stimson, 22, said she started writing poetry in junior high school. She now has three notebooks full of her writing.

Cancer

I sit within a room, It's so cold, So frightening, His hospital room.

I carefully examine his body, His flesh Hardly enough to encase His withered bones.

I command a view of his face, Dear God, his face, It's so drawn, So disfigured.

Cancer— Has invaded, His blood, His innocent veins.

He lies silent, In a bed, A bed of torment, A bed of misery.

He recognizes his fate, But is unable to refute.

Ruth Ann Hay-Stimson

Besides winning the Silver Poet Award, Stimson's poem was published in The New York Poetry Society Anthology.

Madison abolishes recreation board

By Donna Kimbro

MADISON — Efforts to trim expenses prompted aldermen Tuesday night to abolish the city's Playgrounds and Recreation System board. The playgrounds and recreation program will continue.

Councilmen decided that all duties of the five-member board will be performed by the City Council.

Board members have been receiving $50 monthly pay from federal community development funds, a discussion brought out. Since these funds are being curtailed, aldermen decided to eliminate the appointive positions.

MAYOR JOHN BELLCOFF said he believes that, under Illinois statutes, such boards usually serve without compensation, in contrast to Madison's practice. The council also amended an ordinance to provide incentive pay for police who pursue higher learning.

The amendment says that, upon successful completion of an associate college degree in an applied police science, an active police officer will be paid an additional $300 per year, payable in December of that year.

JIM HILLMER, council finance chairman, announced the finance committee has been meeting with city department heads and discussing a projected revenue-spending imbalance.

He said, "We are waiting for the budget to be finished before we set up any more meetings."

City Controller Rich Tutka said he is in the process of securing bids for insurance coverage on city employees. He also has talked with three telephone companies in an effort to get information on a proposed new phone system for the city government.

Tutka will report progress on these tasks to the finance committee.

WITH AN OVERFLOW CROWD present, the mayor addressed the residents and officials. He said, "We are making cuts and, in two departments, are taking a hard look at expenses."

"We will report later on this, because we can't keep feeding something that can't take care of itself."

Busy summer at libraries in GC

"Readers on the Move" is the theme of the 1986 summer library program at the Granite City Public Library. The program consists of reading, crafts, films and storytimes.

Activities are planned through August at the main and branch libraries and on the bookmobile.

All programs are free, and children are encouraged to participate in as many as their schedules will allow. A calendar of all upcoming programs is available at the library.

Children who read and report on 10 books by Aug. 2 will receive a certificate and be invited to the final party in August. Each book read during the summer will earn the children "book bucks," which can be redeemed at the summer party for prizes.

Crafts sessions will be held at the main library, 2001 Delmar Ave., and at the branch library, 2020 Johnson Road, on alternate Wednesdays at 2 p.m. All supplies will be furnished. Children must be at least six years old to attend craft sessions.

Films will be shown on Thursdays at 2 p.m. in the children's department of the main library. All films are by Disney Productions and the showings are free and open to the public of all ages. A list of upcoming movies is available in the children's department and at the branch library.

Storytimes will be held through Aug. 13 at the main library on Mondays from 10 to 10:30 a.m. At the branch, storytimes will be held through Aug. 15 on Fridays from 10 to 10:30 a.m. Children must be at least three years old to attend storytimes.

Kindergarten and primary-grade children who normally miss storytime because of school hours are also encouraged to attend.

Children register for the reading program at either the main or branch library. Additional information on the summer reading program may be obtained by phoning 452-4233.

Painters picket

Regional news Fireworks safety urged

Illinois State Medical Society
The upcoming Fourth of July celebration is again expected to result in a host of fireworks-related injuries — many of them to children.

All types of fireworks — even those sold legally — have resulted in injury, and even death. The most common injuries are those to the eyes, followed by hand and finger injuries. Firecrackers, bottle rockets, and sparklers prompt the most hospitalizations.

For 10 years, the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness has surveyed the more than 500 ophthalmologists in 300 hospitals in Illinois regarding eye injuries caused by fireworks. Though down somewhat last year, the number of eye injuries reported was still more than double those reported in 1983. Bottle rockets were reported to be the prime cause.

By age, 1985 eye injuries were highest (40 percent) among 10-19 year-olds. Children under 10 accounted for 19 percent of eye injuries, 23 percent went to 20-29 year-olds, and 13 percent to adults aged 30-39. The age breakdown was nearly identical to that reported in 1984.

Until 1981, Illinois had one of the toughest anti-fireworks laws in the nation. Since then, however, restrictions have been lifted on sparklers, "snakes," smoke bombs and some other devices.

But legal fireworks are not equivalent to safety. Sparklers, for example, burn at an extremely high temperature (1,800 degrees). They are especially dangerous because they are hand-held, often very close to the eyes of young children. Sparks emanating from them also have been known to ignite flammable clothing, causing severe burns.

Despite efforts to the contrary, there will be considerable use of fireworks in Illinois much of it by children — when the Fourth of July rolls around. What can be done to make use of these fireworks as safe as possible? The National Safety Council and the American Academy of Pediatrics offer several tips:

- Store fireworks in a cool, dry place. Avoid rough handling that can damage devices or their fuses.
- Before using fireworks, read all directions and follow label warnings.
- Ignite fireworks outdoors in a clear area away from residences. Make sure to keep fireworks away from flammable materials.
- Light one device at a time. Never place them in glass or metal containers that can shatter and send dangerous fragments through the air.

"Keep all admirers at a distance and never let young children use fireworks. Youngsters are the group most affected by fireworks injuries."

As a preventive measure, keep a bucket of water nearby when using fireworks. The water can be used to douse those devices that don't ignite. Clean water should be used for burns.

"In case of serious injury, medical assistance should be sought immediately from the nearest medical facility. Quick action can minimize serious complications and relieve pain."

"Finally, try to stick to approved public displays. Most communities sponsor Independence Day celebrations complete with fireworks displays. Here, too, caution is in order. Standing "downwind" of aerial displays, where sparks often descend into people's eyes, can be dangerous.

Don't get too close, and avoid wearing flammable clothing that could burst into flame if touched by burning debris from a skyrocket burst or other display, authorities urge.

State domestic violence grant to Phoenix Center

Illinois Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan has announced that 109 programs located in 107 agencies statewide will receive a total of $89,602 during the July 1 through June 30, 1987 period of the Violent Crime Victims Assistance Program administered by his office.

Money for the awards comes from the state's 1984 Violent Crime Victims Assistance Fund which is financed by fines imposed on convicted offenders.

Judges impose the fines on all persons convicted of violent crimes — felonies, misdemeanors and some traffic violations. The county clerk sends the fine to the fund in the state treasurer's office.

In Madison County, the Madison County Victim Assistance Center, Edwardsville, will get $12,250; Oasis Women's Center, Alton, $8,100; Phoenix Crisis Center, Granite City, $17,710; and the Rape & Sexual Abuse Center's Child Sexual Abuse Program, Edwardsville, $10,000, a county total of $48,060.

which had not previously received money, will receive grants in this funding period. They are among agencies funded in 33 counties statewide.

A Chicago hospital-based program to offer services to child victims of sexual abuse and a Danville elderly abuse program will be among 20 programs receiving awards for the first time.

Hartigan, who has labeled the fund "a vital step in creating a true victim's justice system in Illinois," said he is "gratified by the continued increase of grants and participating agencies due to a more efficient system of assessments and collection of fines and greater public awareness of the program."

"The average award for this funding period, which runs from June through November, is $9,335, an increase over the first period — average, $7,882 — and the second period — average, $8,300," he said.

"The program is growing in other ways. In this third period, we have the funding of three legal assistance programs to provide legal and advocacy services to all types of victims, with emphasis on victims of domestic violence."

Recommendations on which agencies should receive money from the fund are made to Hartigan by a 13-member advisory commission. Under state law, the attorney general serves as chairman of the commission and administers the program.

The first all-district baseball squad

I've always been proud of the fact that I was the first sports reporter in the St. Louis metropolitan area to pick an all-district baseball team.

The idea occurred to me when I realized that all three of the major St. Louis dailies annually picked an all-district team in football and basketball, but none honored high school baseball players.

So, after running the idea past my sports editor, Sid Keener, and getting his okay, I decided to pick the team. (I was also the first to pick an all-district track and field squad.)

The were 15 prep baseball players on that first team, including a five-man pitching corps. Only two of the players I picked ever made it to the majors. Both were pitchers: lanky Leroy Wheat of Edwardsville and southpaw Bob Wiesler of Beaumont.

Wheat, a 4-4 right-handed pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics in 1954 and with Kansas City (same club but new town). In 1954, he appeared in eight games, posted an 0-2 record. In 1955, Wheat worked in five games, but did not have a record.

Beaumont's Wiesler spent three seasons with the New York Yankees (1951-54) and posted a 3-6 record. He also spent three seasons with the Washington Senators. He was 4-13 with that club.

Another player who I failed to pick was Carl James Linhart of Granite City, the captain and hard-hitting catcher on the 1948 Warrior team that won the Illinois state championship.

Linhart came up with Detroit in 1952, but he appeared in only three games.

Another player overlooked was Earl Sidney Weaver, who played at Beaumont High School. He never made it to the major leagues as a player, but was a success as the manager of Baltimore.

Weaver was a brilliant infielder, but his size might have turned me against him. But the reason why I didn't sway his way was that Beaumont landed three players on the original team: outfielder Gene Barth, infielder Billy Bullock and Wiesler.

Webster Groves had two players picked: third baseman Ronnie Tschanen and pitcher John Wilson who posted an 8-0 record in his junior year.

The two other pitchers were Dick Bogdan of St. Louis U. High and Bob Radopski of St. Mary's. McKinley's Chuck Stimac was the catcher.

In the infield were Barney Elser of Belleville; first baseman Ray Hilger of Southwest; and second baseman Leo Garadono of Central High School.

In addition to Barth, other outfielders were Art Herberger of Kirkwood; Bob English of Cleveland and Bob Phillips of Maplewood. English and his twin brother, Dave, were also standout basketball players and went on to play varsity ball at St. Louis University.

Barth, Elser, Stimac and Bullock all played in the minor leagues. Both Elser and Barth made it to the Triple A level.

and tagged Wilfong just as he slid across.

Four of the runs in the inning were unearned.

Hendrickson reached on an error with one out in the third and Patterson followed with a home run, breaking an 0 for 12 streak. But Brighton responded with a run of its own in the bottom half of the inning to make it 2-2.

Powell came in to pitch after the first three Optimists walked in the fourth. But Mills singled up the middle for two runs and Patterson followed with a double off the fence in left field to tie the margin to 2-2. Wilson got a bunt single as Patterson went head first into third, and Granite City pulled off its first of two double steals when Wilson swiped second as Patterson beat the return throw home.

Brighton upped its lead to two runs again, 3-2, when Wilfong dropped a bloop single into right to score Powell with two outs in the fourth, but the Optimists were not to be denied.

Bamper singled to start the fifth and went to third on a wild pickoff throw by Powell. Lane grounded to third and Bamper appeared to be a sitting duck at the plate. But catcher Rich Howard had to short-pot the throw from Wilfong at third and Bamper in under a second as Lane took second. He advanced to third as Mills walked, then the Optimists pulled off another double steal to tie the game, 3-3. Mills came around on a passed ball and a wild pitch by Howard, who had replaced Powell on the mound.

Brighton threatened again in the sixth when David Brandt walked and Powell singled. But Darren Rhoades' long drive into the right field corner was caught by Chapman, who made a diving catch. Bamper then picked Powell off first to end the inning.

Granite City padded its lead after two were out in the seventh. Patterson got his third hit, and with Jerry Thompson running for Wilson hit one out of the reach of Brandt in deep center. Thompson, who didn't break right away, just beat the throw home. Georgeff then singled Wilson home to make it 12-3, and Georgeff scored when Jeff Hall made a wild throw after fielding Kory Burton's grounder.

"This team is coming along pretty good," Kacera said. "We played real well Thursday after not playing so good Tuesday, and tonight was another exciting one."

The Optimists barely hung on for a 9-7 win at Alton Tuesday, but had a dandy at home Thursday against East Alton. Charlie Collins had a first inning home run and Hendrickson pitched a two-hitter for a 1-0 win.

It took as long to play 4 1/2 innings on the lonely farmland of Brighton Friday as it did to play the whole game Thursday, but it was worth it.

The Optimists have a doubleheader at Alton against the Alton Optimists tonight at 6 p.m. They then have home games Tuesday and Thursday against Waterloo and East St. Louis. Both games start at 6 p.m. at Varsity Field.

fullback, scored six goals and had 11 assists for McCluer.

Another former Comet is Abbott. He was ineligible last year, but can play both fullback and some goal.

Coffelt is a transfer from Missouri Baptist College. He scored three goals and added two assists from his forward position.

Barker is another college transfer. He played for McKendree in 1985. Barker should help shore up the Stars' goaltending corps. At McKendree, he posted a 2.2 goals against average. In his senior year at Triad, Barker had a 2.7 goals against average and posted three shutouts.

With the new recruits, Granite City Campus will have 18 players reporting to fall practices. The Stars advanced to the regional finals a year ago before losing to Lewis and Clark Community College.
